PORTIONS

- ☐ CH 1: Integers

- ☐ CH 3: Data Handling

ONE EXAM, ITS DATE, AND WHAT TO REVISE

The portions, on the date they matter.

Post a single homework as you do now, dated, one line. For a whole exam schedule or a term's weekly reports, upload the file you already send. Each paper becomes an entry on its own date, with its portions as a checklist the child ticks off. It stops being an attachment students have to hunt for.

It reaches the whole class as one message, from a .xlsx file only, and you see every item in a preview before it goes, so you can fix a date or a title first.

~~“I didn’t know about it.”~~

~~“It wasn’t in the group.”~~

~~“Miss didn’t say when.”~~

No excuses.

It was in their planner, dated, sitting next to everything else they had to do that night.

14 of 20

It’s what they’ve ticked done themselves, so it’s a signal for your lesson, not a mark. And it decides the lesson before you walk into it: move on, or stop and clear the doubts, at 9:15, not after you’ve collected the books.

You see how many. You never see who. That is why twenty families say yes to a class code without a conversation about what you can see.

TODAY, AND WHAT'S ALREADY TICKED

YOUR WEEK

FRIDAY • 4:00 PM

Your classes, your reminders, your timetable, your own week.

All of it in one place, and the same place your students already have open. Nothing repeated three times, nothing chased, nothing left in a bag.

Your notes and your material stay where they are. Classroom is better at those, and AllSet doesn't go near it. Only the list moves.

GETTING STARTED

SUNDAY • 8:20 PM

You're ready for tomorrow.

Same hour, same four classes. Nothing to hunt for, because none of it is in four different places any more.

Create your class. Share the link or the QR code.

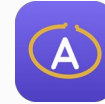

There's no class list to type in. Families join from the link, and you approve who gets in.

Send it to the parents' group or by email.

ONE CLASS STAYS FREE, FOR GOOD

Up to 60 students, nothing to enter, nothing that expires. A subscription only comes in for the other classes you teach, and it doesn't have to be your homeroom section.

TWO QUESTIONS YOU'LL BE ASKED

Why AllSet when I have Google Classroom?

Classroom holds your material. AllSet builds the child's day.

A post waits in a stream. A dated entry sits in their week, next to football and tuition. One homework is still one extra line. A whole exam schedule is one upload.

Why AllSet when the school already has its own app?

The school app notifies parents. AllSet plans the child's week.

A notification interrupts you. A plan waits for you. Notices and PTMs stay where they are. Your class's work gets a place of its own.
